The Adventure Company to Publish Investigative Thriller Crime Stories

Toronto, January 19, 2006 - The Adventure Company, a leading publisher of PC adventure games, today announced it will publish Crime Stories for Windows®. The game will begin shipping in North America on March 14, 2006.

Take on the role of Martin Mystère, a brilliant young F.B.I. agent, who has just been called upon to investigate the brutal murder of the highly reputed scientist, Professor Eulemberg. What fascinating discovery had the professor uncovered and why is he now dead?

Your investigations into the murder will take you all over the world as you are confronted with many dangerous and exhilarating adventures. Only you will be able to solve this horrific crime – that is if you act fast... and keep your wits about you!

- A cinematic investigative thriller that will keep you on the edge of your seat for hours!
- Beautifully detailed 3D graphics with rich, colorful environments to explore.
- 3rd person gameplay with numerous inventory items to discover and interact with.
- Creative and original puzzles that will challenge you!
- Loads of characters to talk to and assist you with your investigations – you choose what you want to say to them!
- A dark and disturbing tale of betrayal and murder!
- A rich atmospheric soundtrack accompanies gameplay and adjusts to your surroundings.

Developed by Artematica, Crime Stories has an anticipated ESRB rating of "T" for Teen. For more information, please visit the Crime Stories product page here.
